Programme overview
The Religious Roots of Europe (RRE) is a two-year Nordic Master’s programme offered by the Centre for Theology and Religious Studies at Lund University in cooperation with the universities of Aarhus, Copenhagen, Helsinki and Oslo. The programme is focused on the formative periods of Judaism, Islam and Christianity, their common roots, early interaction and contributions to European culture. The programme prepares students for educational and social work in a multi-religious society or research on the role of the three religions in European history and society. Through the programme, students acquire detailed knowledge about the formation of the three religions and their interaction with one another, as well as skills relevant for any occupation or study where the role of the three religions is of importance. The programme is unique in its focus on the formation of all three religions in a comparative perspective. As a joint Nordic programme it gives students access to the professors and research of five different universities, as well as to the Nordic institutes in the Mediterranean Area. Travel and accommodation are financed by the students. These extra expenses will be in the order of EUR 3,500 for the two years of study.

Career prospects
The formation of multi-religious societies in Europe and the increasing role of religion today create a need for individuals with an in-depth knowledge of the formation and history of religions, especially Judaism, Christianity and Islam, as well as a need for future research in the field. A graduate from this programme will be able to enter into specialised occupations in churches, government institutions, organisations dealing with culture, integration or diplomacy, and in private firms that may, for example, be focused on business relations with the Middle East. The programme also provides an excellent basis for PhD studies.

Entry requirements and how to apply
ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
A Bachelor’s degree with a major in theology, the study of religion, classical philology, classical archaeology, history or the equivalent. A minimum of 15 ECTS credits in either one or two of the following ancient languages: Greek, Latin, Hebrew or Arabic (an exemption can be applied if someone does not meet these standards fully). English 6/English Course B. See www.lunduniversity.lu.se for details on English proficiency levels.

Programme modules/courses
COMPULSORY COURSES WITH NUMBER OF CREDITS: The Study of Ancient Religion (10), The Emergence of Judaism, Christianity & Islam (10), The Three Religions in Contemporary Perspective (10), Thesis Colloquium (10), Master’s thesis (30). ELECTIVES: Interaction, text, or ancient language courses (5x10).

The teaching combines e-learning, compact seminars, course assignments, tutorials and traditional teaching. Student mobility is essential to the programme. As a student you are expected to participate in compact seminars at the other Nordic host institutions and at the Nordic institutes in the Mediterranean Area. Travel and accommodation are financed by the students. These extra expenses will be in the order of EUR 3,500 for the two years of study.

“We are doing some things all together as well, even though we are studying in different cities and countries. We actually started out in Rome together with some of the teachers. At times we have compact seminars together, so a while ago we were all in Copenhagen.”
