MA in European Studies

LUND UNIVERSITY, SWEDEN

- Master of Arts in European Studies
- 2 years, full-time, 120 ECTS credits
- Centre for Languages and Literature
- Lund Campus
- Application deadline: January 2020
- Programme start: August 2020

Programme overview

This is an interdisciplinary Master's programme with a unique perspective on Europe. Our focus is on culture, identity, communication and history, in combination with theoretical sophistication and career pragmatism. Academically, the programme benefits from the presence of the Centre for European Studies, a research-focused network across Lund University. The lectures are given by qualified lecturers with exemplary research and teaching records, as well as by guest speakers from both academia and industry. Thus, our programme offers a solid theoretical foundation for the study of European culture, identity and politics. Furthermore, it develops students' practical skills through a project management course and the possibility of going on an internship.

During the Master's in European Studies, students will:

- learn to understand notions of European culture, history and politics as well as collective identity dynamics
- master the important features of the institutions and governance of the European Union
- focus on the political culture and communication policies of the European Union as well as related areas
- develop project management and communication skills

Programme modules/courses

COMPULSORY COURSES AND NUMBER OF CREDITS: The Meaning of Europe: Culture, Values and Identity (15), Institutions and Governance in the European Union (15), Theory and Methodology (15), Project Management and Communication Strategies (15), Master's thesis (30). ELECTIVE COURSES: vary each year, but always include the possibility to do an internship. Students may also choose elective courses in other relevant fields of the humanities or social sciences.

Career prospects

Previous generations of European Studies graduates include alumni who have found jobs at embassies and think-tanks. Others have obtained relevant experience during internships with European institutions, NGOs, research institutes and cultural organisations across the continent, both within and outside the EU. Some of our Master's alumni have chosen an academic path as doctoral students.

Rank the chosen programmes in order of preference.

"I particularly enjoy the interdisciplinary nature of MAPES. The mix between historical, cultural and political aspects has given me a broader perspective and helped me to visualise my future career goals. I am also very happy to be part of a group of international students, where different viewpoints often make for interesting and eye-opening discussions."

Lisa Långberg from Sweden

About the Centre for Languages and Literature

At the Centre for Languages and Literature (known as SOL), you can study languages, literature, film, European studies and Central and Eastern European studies. SOL is also home to Lund's largest student library and a popular cafeteria. We offer free-standing courses in 28 different subjects and a number of study programmes, including Creative Writing and Arabic Studies.

The extensive research conducted at SOL, with over 200 researchers, guarantees that your studies will have a strong foundation in research. Research at the centre has two main focuses: one on linguistics and one on literature and culture. For example, it could address the relationship between language cognition and the brain, the depiction of the welfare state in film, or the works of the latest winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature. The Centre for Languages and Literature has some 300 staff and 3 000 students, of whom around 100 are doctoral students. Together we combine tradition with dynamics and creativity in an interdisciplinary learning and research environment.
